Beekeeping Hobby Grows in Mississippi, Nation

By Susan Collins-Smith
MSU Extension Service

Beekeeping is hot right now, with numbers of producers steadily increasing in Mississippi and across the U.S.

"Beekeeping continues to grow in astonishing numbers across the country," said Jeff Harris, bee specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service. "Most of that growth is from people who want to do it as a hobby."

Johnny Thompson, a Philadelphia, Mississippi, beekeeper who raises queens and nucleus colonies, said about half of his customers are new to beekeeping.

"Most are hobbyists," he said. "A lot of people are reading about how bees are disappearing and want a hive. Some people have gardens and say they never see any bees."

Thompson, who also sells honey, said he is sold out of queens and nucleus colonies through early May. Nucleus colonies, or "nucs," are smaller colonies with food, a laying queen and worker bees in all stages of development. When placed in a larger box, the nuc grows rapidly into a full colony.

"I can't produce enough queens to meet the demand," Thompson said. "We have doubled our production every year for the last few years, and we still can't keep up. We're making up nucs now. We did 150 this week and will do 100 next week. Every year I keep thinking it will slow down, but it never does."

In 2015, about 1,000 Mississippi beekeepers managed between 20,000 and 25,000 hives. Approximately 30 of those beekeepers are commercial producers who earn a large portion of their annual incomes from beekeeping. The remaining beekeepers are small-scale producers or hobbyists, Harris said.

With an average yield of 100 pounds of honey per colony, Mississippi leads the nation in honey production. In 2015, honey sold on the wholesale market for $2.15 per pound and had a total value of between $4 million and $5 million.

Mild winters and abundant plant life, including wildflowers and row crops, make Mississippi an ideal place to raise honeybees. Producers who rotate their bees throughout the state can produce honey during three seasons of the year.

About 15 beekeepers from Northern and Midwestern states overwinter their bees in Mississippi because the bees are less stressed and food is available earlier in the spring.

"These large commercial beekeepers can bring 8,000 colonies of bees here for the winter," Harris said. "As the bees begin to grow, they can split their existing hives and double their numbers of colonies, returning home with 16,000 colonies for summer honey production."

Harris said he does not expect unusually high levels of winter mortality in Mississippi this year. However, Varroa mites and small hive beetles are the biggest challenges for Mis-issippi beekeepers every year. Varroa mites spread viral diseases that can cause high summer or winter losses of bees, depending on when mite populations swell in the hives.

"Lots of people think that a dead colony without any bees found inside is a mysterious death, but more often than not, it can be related to a failure to control Varroa mites," Harris said.

Small hive beetles invade weak or dying colonies and lay their eggs on honeycombs. Their larva tunnel through the comb and eat the developing bee brood, honey and pollen. Adult bees are repelled by the slime left behind by the larvae and will abandon the hive, Harris said.

"Strong colonies can handle the beetles," he said. "Removing weak colonies and keeping honey houses clean from comb debris are the only real ways to combat this pest. If people are good at managing Varroa mites, they have more than managed half the battle against small hive beetles."

Homeowners can also support Mississippi's bee population by strictly following label directions on garden chemicals, such as insecticides, fungicides and herbicides, Harris said.

"If a flowering plant is in bloom, and pollinators are visiting it, it is best not to apply an insecticide or to apply it as late in the day as possible," he said. "Most honeybee flight activity to get food occurs between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. If you wait until late evening, most foraging honeybees are no longer visiting plants and the risk of exposure to the insecticide is greatly reduced. Most insecticides break down within eight hours or so, and the residues are all but gone by the time the sun rises the next morning."

Another option is to use a chemical-free product, such as an insecticidal soap or Neem oil.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

Honey – Nature's Sweetener

*****

Pineapple Honey Glazed Ham

1 (4 to 5 pound) fully cooked boneless ham
1 can (8 ounces) pineapple slices
1/3 cup honey
1 tablespoon ground mustard
Ground cloves

Bake ham on rack in shallow baking pan at 325°F for one hour or to 120°F on meat thermometer. Drain pineapple; reserve liquid. Combined reserved liquid, honey, mustard and cloves; mix well. Score top of ham, if desired, and arrange pineapple slices on top. Generously brush honey mixture over entire surface. Bake about 30 to 45 minutes longer or to 140°F; baste every 10 minutes. Let stand 10 to 15 minutes before slicing.

Grilled Corn with Spiced Honey Butter

1/2 cup butter, softened
1/3 cup honey
1 teaspoon chili powder
8 ears fresh corn
8 lime wedges
1/4 cup fresh cilantro, chopped

In a small bowl stir together the butter, honey and chili powder; set aside. Fold back husks and remove silk from corn; pull husks back up over corn. Place corn in a large bowl of ice water and soak for 15 minutes. Remove and shake off excess water. Place on grill over medium hot coals and cook for 15 to 20 minutes, turning frequently. Remove husks and spread each ear with seasoned butter. Sprinkle with cilantro and serve with lime wedges.

Honey Glazed Popcorn

3/4 cup butter or margarine
2/3 cup honey
2/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
3 quarts popped popcorn
1 1/2 cups roasted peanuts

Melt butter in large saucepan; stir in honey, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Bring to a boil; stir constantly. Reduce heat to medium; boil without stirring for five minutes. Remove from heat; quickly stir in vanilla and soda. Place popcorn in large, heat-proof bowl; slowly pour syrup over popcorn while stirring. Add peanuts; mix thoroughly. Turn into two greased 15 1/4 x 10 1/4 x 3/4 -inch baking pans. Bake at 250°F for 45 minutes; stir every 15 minutes with spatula. Scrape honey mixture from pan and coat popcorn thoroughly each time. Remove from oven; cool. Break into serving-sized pieces. Store in tightly covered container.

Pear Honey Pie

4 cups pear, fresh, peeled, sliced
1/3 cup honey
2 tablespoons cornstarch
4 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon fresh lemon peel, grated
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
Pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Toss pears with honey, cornstarch, lemon juice, peel and ginger. Turn mixture into pastry-lined 9-inch pie plate; dot with butter or margarine. Cover with top crust. Seal and flute edges; cut vents into crust. Bake at 400°F 35 to 45 minutes or until pears are tender and crust is golden.

Warm Potato Salad with Honey Dressing

1/3 cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/4 cup honey
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1/8 teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce
1 1/2 pounds small new potatoes, cut in bite-sized pieces
5 slices bacon, crisp cooked, crumbled
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons olive oil
Salt, to taste
Pepper, to taste

Preheat oven to 375°F. Combine vinegar, oil, honey, mustard and pepper sauce; mix well. Toss half of the dressing with potatoes, reserving half. Spread potatoes evenly on sheet pan. Bake potatoes 18-20 minutes, tossing in the remaining dressing halfway through. Add bacon, parsley, green onions and salt; mix well.

Excitement at the Ag Museum

By Fred Temple
Director of Maintenance - Ag Museum

There are lots of new and exciting things happening at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum. With several upcoming events and activities, some being the same while some are brand new, there are many things to do for both the young and for the young at heart. The employees of the museum are excited about our new educational programming and special events coming up this year. We are looking forward to new exhibits and new adventures! Volunteer leader Amie Clark, along with the staff members and other volunteers of the museum, is creating several great opportunities for people of all ages to experience the lifestyle of the early 1900s.

As many of you remember, there was a devastating fire at the museum in November of 2014. The fire destroyed the children's barn, vet clinic, and the maintenance shop. The evening of the fire will be forever etched in the memory of all the employees and visitors. The morning after the fire, most of us – after being up all night – were in shock and disbelief at what had taken place only a few hours earlier. Andy Prosser, Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce at the time, came to help with the process of moving past the fire. I will be honest, I don't remember much of that meeting, but I do remember we all agreed that we were blessed that no more had been lost. So, we determined to move on and make the museum a better and more exciting place to visit.

Our new collections director Grant Briscoe received a phone call last week from Melissa Love and Rose Milner. They had several items of their late father, Mr. Stephen Stoner, that they wanted to donate. Grant arranged for himself, Theresa Love, and me to meet with them and look at the items.

We looked through several buildings and found many wonderful artifacts. Some were just what we needed for our education collection. One particular building that we went to had no electricity. Using the small lights on our cell phones, we managed to see pretty well. On the back wall of the dark room, to my surprise, was a Continental 10-saw portable cotton gin identical to the one the museum lost in the fire. Since the night of the fire, and indeed until this very moment, I thought that I would never see another gin like this, let alone that the Ag Museum would ever have one again. Thanks to the thoughtfulness and kindness of Melissa and Rose, the Ag Museum now has a replacement. Without people like Mr. Stephen Stoner, who are dedicated to historic preservation, treasures like this 1910 cotton gin would be lost forever. I was overwhelmed with emotion. I have often heard people talk about closure to a tragic event. The sight of this gin and the donation of it to the Ag Museum meant closure for me to a tragic episode in my life.

The fire is now part of our history, and we shall put it in the past and move forward fulfilling our vision to cultivate an appreciation for Mississippi agriculture and create a memorable experience that inspires the community as a whole.

Please take the time to follow us and keep up with upcoming events on our website at www.msagmuseum.org and on our Facebook page at www.facebook.com/msagmuseum.

Galloway Preschoolers Celebrate Ag Day at MS Farmers Market

By Chaille Clements Munn
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Tuesday, March 15, marked National Ag Day, an annual celebration set to recognize, celebrate and educate consumers of the abundance provided by American agriculture. For the occasion, the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) hosted preschoolers from Galloway United Methodist Church Children's Center at a National Ag Day celebration held at the Mississippi Farmers Market.

"We celebrate National Ag Day in order to recognize the contributions of our farmers who feed and clothe the world. We are proud to have shared the day with Galloway's preschoolers, who may be our next generation's leaders in agriculture," said Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith.

The group of 4- and 5-year-olds was treated to a hands-on learning experience as they dug into the Mississippi Farmers Market's garden. They planted an abundance of spring fruits and vegetables donated by Bonnie Plants with the assistance of the staff from MDAC. Each child also planted their own seed to take home and learn how it will transition into delicious and healthy food. "The early years of life are an important time to introduce new foods, new varieties and new flavors to children. If they learn to eat healthy now, they will typically continue the habit of eating healthy as they grow," said Sharon Patterson, director of Galloway United Methodist Church Children's Center. "I think it is important to have fresh food to grow strong bodies," she continued.

National Ag Day is annually celebrated on a national level as well as in communities and schools throughout the country. A number of producers, agricultural associations, corporations, students and government organizations involved in agriculture join together to recognize the contributions of agriculture. These events mark a nationwide effort to tell the true story of American agriculture and remind citizens that agriculture is a part of all of us.

The Mississippi Farmers Market, located at 929 High Street adjacent to the Fairgrounds, is a division of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. For more information about the market, call (601) 354-6573, download the Mississippi Farmers Market mobile app on your Apple or Android device, visit www.msfarmersmarket.com, or "like" the Mississippi Farmers Market on Facebook.

Ralph Morgan Rodeo Celebrates 40 Years

By Linda Clayton, Advertising
Ralph Morgan Rodeo

The Ralph Morgan Rodeo will be held in Lauderdale on April 8-9, 2016. This event will mark 40 years of the Ralph Morgan Rodeo in Lauderdale which began in 1976. Prior to establishing the rodeo, Ralph Morgan was a rodeo contestant competing in calf roping and steer wrestling events. He went on to buy a rodeo company with a friend creating Harper & Morgan Rodeo Company. He and his wife, Lib, work hard to make to make this event the "greatest show on dirt" to Lauderdale. Their son, Johnny, is involved with the rodeo and raises bulls at their farm in Lauderdale.

This PRCA sanctioned rodeo is a semi-annual event held every April and August. On April 8-9, spectators will enjoy family fun, beautiful grounds around the arena and wonderful food, and the cowboys and cowgirls will impress you with their rodeo skills and outstanding rodeo stock. Mike Mathis, will be announcing the rodeo and explaining what is going on from horseback, and Lecile Harris will be the clown that will have all laughing all night long. A favorite at the rodeo is the Kids' Dance Competition and Kids' Calf Scramble. Rodeo fans will enjoy calf roping, steer wrestling, team roping, bareback event, saddle bronc event, women's barrel racing and the crowds' favorite, bull riding. The large concession stand will be run by the Lauderdale United Methodist Church as a fundraiser, and the small concession stand will be run by the Lauderdale 4-H Club for them to earn money for community service projects and scholarships for senior 4-Hers. There is something for all ages to enjoy.

The rodeo begins at 7:30 p.m. each night with gates opening at 6:00 p.m. Tickets are still a great price of $10 for adults and $6 for children 12 and under. Be sure to enjoy some delicious food while you are there, and come celebrate 40 years of rodeo in Lauderdale.
